My liquidator looked at the inventory - which was wooden playground equipment - not complete sets, but pieces that go with sets. They tried to find a buyer for the items before moving them because they are big and bulky and thought it would be costly to move (which it was). I filed an Emergency Motion to sell because it was Christmas time and they really thought the items would sell at the location. They didn't and the landlord filed an administrative claim for rent. The items were moved and sold. If you need anything else let me know. Linda
